NATIONAL GALLERY OF MODERN ART, NEW DELHI welcomes all to view the rich repository of its vast collection on

INTERNATIONAL MUSEUM DAY Sunday
18th May 2014

On the occasion of International Museum Day the entry to the Museum is free of cost. The exhibitions currently showcased at NGMA, New Delhi.

IN THE SEEDS OF TIME

The National Gallery of Modern Art was established with an objective to promote Modern and Contemporary art in the country. With its vast and eclectic collection of over 17,000 works of art from 1857 onwards, NGMA pays tribute to our resplendent past and present. The treasures of art here showcase miniature paintings to modernist interventions and au courant contemporary expressions.

RAJ Rewal

This exhibition Raj Rewal: Memory, Metaphor and Meaning in his Constructed Landscape, is the first ever architectural exhibition to be organized at the National Gallery of Modern Art (NGMA), New Delhi. Raj Rewal’s architecture is an experiential phenomenon in space and form. Deeply influenced by the Indian aesthetic order and spirit, his works are rooted in the ethos of the land, and are significant landmarks of ‘modern’ architectural heritage that we as a society need to conserve. The NGMA aptly fulfilling its role as a centre for the arts in India and as a premier venue for exhibitions, especially curated with an interdisciplinary approach, this exhibition represents Raj Rewal’s architectural marvels including sketches, drawing, models and films at the our two main galleries - the Jaipur House and the Temporary Exhibition Gallery in the NGMA’s new wing.