Workshop

Sensorium of Consciousness through Memory

Join artist Seema Kohli for an immersive workshop exploring how our senses shape memory, identity, and perception. Through guided exercises involving smell, taste, sound, and sight, participants will reflect on personal and collective memories, and engage in the practice of counter-mapping—tracing emotional geographies through sensory experience. Hosted alongside the exhibition Kaal Netra – Sacred Matrices at NGMA Bengaluru, the workshop invites students, scholars, and creatives to explore sense-memory, aesthetic perception, and the politics of the senses. Together, we'll examine how intersubjective memories and embodied experiences can form new ways of understanding, mapping, and narrating the world. Let's turn NGMA into a living sensorium, where memories are mapped, challenged, and transformed. (18 years and above)

Limited participants on a first come, first served basis

Entry for participation (18 years and above) in the workshop shall be by registration
