

Shot Story

An image-based story writing journey for children (10-15 years)

'Time Present: Photographs from the Deutsche Bank Collection', on view at the National Gallery of Modern Art, Mumbai from March 21 – May 10, 2015, is an international panorama of photographic art. Time Present offers an extraordinary insight into contemporary history, where photography has radically changed our vision of the world.

Under the aegis of this exhibition, The Pomegranate Workshop presents a unique series of workshops for school children aged 10-15 years.

At Shot Story, conducted by The Pomegranate Workshop, children will discover that an image can indeed speak several hundred words, if not a 1000! Using effective strategies, the facilitators will lead the children to connect with the photo images so they can create their very own stories in the Shot Story workshop. The stories can be written in English, Hindi or Marathi.

The workshops aim to sensitize the children to the art of photography from the world over by creating a direct connect through fiction or nonfiction stories written by the children.

Certificates of Excellence will be awarded to 25 best stories. At the conclusion of the month long program, there will be three awards for the three best stories over the entire month.

Workshop dates and timing:

Venue: Auditorium inside National Gallery of Modern Art, (Opposite CSMVS, formerly Prince of Wales Museum), Sir Cowasji Jehangir Public Hall, M G Road, Fort, Mumbai
