Keynote Lecture

Sen Kapadia

Sen Kapadia is a prominent senior Architect, Planner and Educationist, based in Mumbai. He has worked with eminent American Architect Louis Kahn in Philadelphia and the Space Management office in New York. Recipient of several awards for architectural design including Competition Winning Design for N.I.D. new P.G. Campus at Gandhinagar. His works are widely published in journals and newspapers. He has authored over fifty theoretical articles and lectured at various universities in India and abroad.

He was the founder Director of KRV Institute for Conceptual Architecture in Mumbai. Kapadia has created distinctive Energy Conscious architectural designs that include Corporate Offices, Educational Institutions, Housing, Sports Clubs and Commercial Complexes. These works display a judicious blend of international techniques, acquired through long American exposure and local aesthetic sensibilities, imbibed through deep study of Indian traditional architecture.

He has earlier collaborated with Ar B V Doshi on a book IN CONVERSATION, on Contours of Contemporary Indian Architecture.
